Suspect held in Ark. jail

Arkansas-side police are holding a 20-year-old McGhee, Ark., man in connection with the the cashing of four hot checks Saturday in Texarkana.

Det. Sgt. Bob Mixon said the man was arrested Saturday at a local grocery store and had allegedly cashed a total of $185 in hot checks at different locations in the city.

Calling All Home Makers

LONG-LASTING FURNITURE

So much has been written during the years in this column and elsewhere about the trends, changes, vagues and happenings which constantly take place in the furniture and decorating industries, it is time that we stopped and took a community sense objective view of this fluctuating and evolutionary process.

Concerning furniture, you will find that good design is practically ageless. This good design regardless whether it is contemporary or traditional regardless of period is what makes furniture long-lasting and keep it from going out of style.

Many of you may remember the blonde craze of years ago when everyone was buying pink furniture for all the rooms in their homes. Previous to that there was the blonde period when bleached and blonde woods were the big vogue throughout the country. More recently it has been mod pop and psychedelic designs which have attracted attention.

Most of these fads turned out to be passing fancies and people who bought some of them might have discovered that their furniture soon became dated.

But if you want furniture that will still be up-to-date many years from now pay a visit here. We know that good design is longer lasting and gives you more beauty and more value.

Boys Club improvement cited

The Boys Club took on a whole new look in 1970 and 1971 when the Jefferson Avenue building was repainted and the grounds improved, John Herring told last night's meeting of the downtown Evening Optimists Club.

Herring said the improvement items aren't old, they just don't exist. The club director said, "It's really amazing the kids will keep coming with the equipment that's available."

Safety is insured by the supervision of an excellent staff, Herring told the optimists, who support the club as one of their major activities.

With membership now frozen at 1,500, the club has a wide variety in its program which is rescheduled "each month so it won't become boring and the boys will enjoy coming." The hours of the club in the summer are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays with special events programs planned for one Saturday every month.

Herring expressed gratitude for the Optimists' contributions which have brought many of the recent capital improvements.

Earlier in the meeting Charlene Surratt of Box A, Linden, Tex., was announced the winner of a camping trailer given away in a contest sponsored by the Optimists. Martin Upton, member of the boys Club and guest at the meeting, drew the winner's name.

16 killed; 4 missing in crash

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — Divers probed surf-washed rocks and shoals Monday looking for more bodies from a private DC3 airliner that crashed off the edge of a real estate development Sunday, killing 16 persons.

Of 23 Californians aboard, all but four were real estate salesmen for the $50-million development, Shelter Cove.

Four of the seven survivors were in serious condition at a hospital.

Two more bodies were recovered Monday, leaving four still missing in the chilly, wind-whipped coastal waters some 60 miles south of here.

Witnesses said the World War II-vintage plane hurtled off the end of the runway without getting into the air, dropped 10 feet onto the roof of a sewage treatment plant 300 feet farther on and then hit a rock 50 yards offshore. The plane broke apart.

"Things got bumpy," stewardess Elizabeth Desuville, 24, of Lawndale, told her father, R.O. Deck, of Palo Alto, by telephone. "The next thing I knew I was swimming for land."

She managed to get out of the crumpled fuselage. Other survivors clung to what wreckage they could find, calling for help. Some eventually slipped into the waves.

On shore, onlookers tried to help by tossing ropes and life-jackets.

Inmate shot at Cummins

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Department of Correction reported Monday that an inmate was shot during the day at Cummins Prison Farm.

The announcement identified the inmate as Andrew Kelly, 34, who was serving a 10-year sentence from Jefferson County for robbery.

The department said Kelly was wounded while working with a crew in connection with the farm operations at the prison. He was hospitalized at Pine Bluff where his condition was described as serious.

Terrell Don Hutto, state correction commissioner, requested a State Police investigation of the circumstances surrounding the shooting, the announcement said.

Hutto was unavailable for comment. The department said he had left en route to Cummins.

Wreck kills McLeod

A 24-year-old DeQueen man, Donald Neal McLeod, died at 7:45 a.m. Monday in a Texarkana hospital from injuries sustained at 4:30 p.m. Sunday in a one-truck accident on Arkansas Highway 4 near Horatio.

According to Arkansas State Police officer Bob Porter the truck ran out of control and plunged down an embankment.

Ronald D. Hornsby, a passenger in the vehicle, received slight injuries and was treated and released at DeQueen General Hospital.

Mr. McLeod was an employe of Brown and Root Construction Co., and was a veteran of the Vietnam conflict.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Wilkerson Funeral Home Chapel with the Rev. Ross Green officiating. Burial will be in Chapel Hill Cemetery.

Survivors include his father, William Earl McLeod of DeQueen; his mother, Mrs. Ernestine McLeod of Little Rock, Ark.; a brother, Paul Jean McLeod of Fayetteville, Ark.; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. W. E. Adams of DeQueen.

Persons wishing to memorialize Mr. McLeod may contribute to the Donald N. McLeod scholarship fund at the First National Bank of DeQueen.

Agnew wants China visit

GUAM (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Monday he would like to visit mainland China, saying that exchanges of U.S. and Communist Chinese officials would be good for both countries.

But Agnew, who has in the past been critical of some Nixon administration initiatives toward Communist China, said he has no plans to go anywhere on his month-long globe-girdling trip except the 11 countries on his official schedule. That includes neither Communist China nor the Nationalist Chinese island of Formosa, which he visited on two previous trips.

Agnew spent Monday on this western Pacific island after his transpacific flight in Air Force Two across the international date line from El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, Calif., via Hawaii.

He flies next to South Korea, where he will represent President Nixon at the inauguration Thursday of President Chung Hee Park and participate in wide-ranging talks with Park, Prime Minister Kim Chang Pil and other Korean officials.

One subject is expected to be the reported South Korean interest in withdrawing 15,000 of its 48,000 troops in South Vietnam. Agnew said this is mainly a matter between the Korean and Vietnamese governments.

He emphasized that "I am not going here on a negotiating or a substantive mission."

On Red China, Agnew was asked if he shared Nixon's desire to visit the Asian mainland giant.

Three men charged in 'Monster' hoax

Three Texarkana, Ark., men charged Saturday with disturbing the peace in connection with an alleged Fouke "monster" attack forfeited bonds of $50 each Monday in Miller County Court.

Arkansas State Trooper Marvin Sinyard said the three were charged after inflicting scrapes on each other in an attempt to make themselves look like victims of the "monster."

Officers said a check of material beneath two of the men's fingernails led officers to believe the incident was a hoax. The three notified Bob Bowen, Fouke marshal of the attack. Officers searched the scene of the alleged assault, but uncovered no evidence, according to Sinyard.

Sheriff Leslie Greer said Monday anyone found hunting the "monster" or trespassing would be arrested.

"We don't want anyone hurt down there. If people go hunting the "monster" with guns then there is a chance of someone getting hurt."

"We have had several reports of farmers' crops being damaged by people hunting the "monster". This has got to stop," the sheriff said.
